There is no Future/Outcome position in this spread. Instead, each card may reveal new information or confirm what you already know. It may also offer guidance on what action to take.

Although the cards are placed in the numerical sequence of the spread, they can be read in any order. If you do the reading for someone else, you could ask the querent to choose, which card to start with (whilst the cards are still lying face-down). This can give you an indication, what the querent’s subconscious priorities are.
